

Lead by Example

Stronger communities are built by participation.
Want to get involved? Here are some organizations to consider.

❖ Association of Clinical Research Professional (ACRP)

ShareFair Host and professional certification organization for clinical researchers
<http://www.acrpnet.org/>

❖ Life Science Alley

Minnesota based organization made of members of the life science business community
<http://www.lifesciencealley.org/>

❖ American Medical Women's Association (AMWA)

Membership organization of health care professionals dedicated to the advancement of women in medicine and improving women's health.
<http://www.amwa-doc.org/>

❖ The Society of Clinical Research Associates (SOCRA)

Non-profit membership organization for all persons involved in clinical research activities, in industry, government and academia.
<http://www.socra.org/>

❖ Drug Information Association (DIA)

Professional global organization for those working in pharmaceutical and medical product development fields.
<http://www.diahome.org/>

❖ Regulatory Affairs Professional Society (RAPS)

Non-profit professional organization involved in regulation of healthcare, medical devices, pharmaceuticals, biologics and nutritional products
<http://www.raps.org/>

❖ Graduate Women in Science, Sigma Delta Epsilon

Interdisciplinary society of scientists who support women in the field
<http://www.gwis.org/>

❖ Minnesota Clinical Research Alliance (MCRA)

Organization to support clinical research and clinical research education of industry, academia, media and government in Minnesota
<http://mnclinicaltrials.com/>